

By Rep. Doggett
January 5, 2011

On day one of this new Congress, the House Republicans first step is backwards. While professing great concern about spending and debt, they abandon pay-as-you-go budgeting, returning to the Bush-Cheney approach -- endless borrowing. They claimed so much wasteful spending could be eliminated, but reject the very rule that required them to cut spending as one way to offset the revenue loss from each new tax break they give away. Their misleading "Cut-Go" just cuts fiscal discipline and says, "Go borrow from the Chinese."

Read more from The Hill here.